- Imagine the centre of the wheel is 0 and the outer edge is 10
- Choose a value between 1 (very dissatisfied) and 10 (fully satisfied)
- Now draw a line and write the score alongside (see example above)

The Wheel of Life Exercise – Instructions

Notes:

- Balance is personal and unique to each individual - what may be satisfying or balanced for some may be stressful or boring for others.
- This exercise raises awareness and allows you to plan a life that is more satisfying and closer to your definition of balance. It also helps clarify priorities for goal-setting.
- Balance must be assessed over time. A regular check-in (eg. with this exercise) can highlight useful patterns and help you learn even more about yourself. You can do this with someone else or do it by yourself.
- An option is for you to ask someone who knows you well to complete the scores for you (sometimes it's helpful to see an outside perception of your life 'balance'). Important: This must be someone you trust and whose opinion you value - and remember that others may have hidden agendas.

Detailed Instructions:

1. Review the 8 categories on your Wheel of Life. The categories should together create a view of a balanced life for you. If necessary you can split category segments to add in something that is missing, or re-label an area to make it more meaningful for you. Examples of changes are:
 1. Family and Friends: Split "Family and Friends" into separate categories.
 2. Significant Other: Changing the category name to "Dating", "Relationship" or "Life Partner".
 3. Career: Changing the category name to "Motherhood", "Work", "Business" or "Volunteering".
 4. Finances: Changing the category name to "Money", "Financial Security" or "Financial Wellbeing".
 5. Health: The category name could be split or changed to "Emotional", "Physical", "Fitness", "Spiritual" or "Wellbeing".
 6. Home Environment: The category could split or change to "Work Environment" for career or business clients.
 7. Fun & Leisure: The category name could change to "Recreation"
 8. Personal Growth: The category name could change to "Learning", "Self-Development" or "Spiritual"
 9. Other categories to add could include "Security", "Service", "Leadership", "Achievement" or "Community".
2. Think about what success or satisfaction would feel like for each area.
3. Rank your level of satisfaction with each area of your life by drawing a line across each segment. Place a value between 1 (very dissatisfied) and 10 (fully satisfied) against each area to show how satisfied you are currently with each category in your life.
4. The new perimeter of the circle represents your Wheel of Life. Based on what you see today, "Is it a bumpy ride?"
5. Now, looking at the wheel here are some great questions to take the exercise deeper:
 1. Are there any surprises for you?
 2. How do you feel about your life as you look at your Wheel?
 3. Where have you invested time, attention, money or other resources? Does it correlate to what you see on your wheel? How would you like to spend time in these areas?
6. Come to the Habit Change Lab to get partnership in this and accountability for change.
